

Walter Urges Joint Proposal For Dam On Upper Delaware

Job Benefits Stressed By Congressman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) urged yesterday that legislation be advanced by Pennsylvania and New Jersey to build at least one large dam on the upper Delaware River.

Walter is a ranking member of the House Judiciary Committee which would be given the task of considering any such compact signed by Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The Pennsylvania Legislature already has authorized construction of a dam on the upper Delaware. The proposal bogged down, however, when New Jersey proponents of the project failed to agree on a site for a reservoir on their side of the river.

Walter said the proposal should be advanced now as one means of creating jobs for the unemployed and as a stimulant to the general economy.

He said there are 19 cement plants within 40 miles of Bethlehem, Pa., some of which at least would be benefited by construction of a dam.

Walter said that as far back as 1937 an Army Engineers survey proposed construction of three dams in general areas of Belvedere, N.J., and Tock's Island, near Shawnee, and Wallpack Bend, opposite Bushkill, Pa. "Not only would the project provide new jobs," said Walter, "but it would help relieve the water shortage in the tri-state area, provide flood control for the Delaware Valley and save many millions of dollars now spent annually on dredging the lower Delaware River of silt washed down the river."

Tri-State Interest
The tri-state area includes Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York. These three along with Delaware have been concerned with development and conservation of Delaware River water resources for more than a score of years. Their interest led to formation of the Delaware River Commission on the Delaware River Basin.

The commission's recommendations of a series of dams for the upper river never have been carried out.

At present, the Army Engineers are making a new study of the river's water resources.

An omnibus rivers and harbors authorization bill passed by the Senate Wednesday night and sent to the White House contains no provision for construction of a dam on the Delaware River with federal aid.

Applicable To Area
The measure would, however, for the first time authorize the Army Engineers to pay part of the cost of water storage dams around the nation.

This would be applicable to any proposed upper Delaware River dam because the project would be intended mainly for water storage rather than flood control.

Jerusalem's Hotels Filled Over Holiday

JERUSALEM, Jordan Sector (AP)—For the first time in three years, Good Friday finds Old Jerusalem's hotels filled to capacity and bustling with tourist business.

Riot, war and rumor frightened tourists and pilgrims away from the Holy Land at both Easters since 1955. The absence of tourists spelled hunger for the inhabitants of Jerusalem, 75 per cent of whom depend for a living on visitors and pilgrims.

Good Friday 1958 will dawn on a Jerusalem living in apparent stability and calm. Jordan's long-troubled frontier with Israel is relatively quiet and inside the country there is no open opposition to King Hussein's regime. There have been no political riots here for nearly a year.

Pennsylvania May Raise Car Insurance

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An insurance company executive said yesterday that Pennsylvania companies are preparing to increase automobile casualty insurance.

Herbert P. Stellwagen, executive vice president of the Indemnity Insurance Co. of North America, said the rate increase, the second in recent months, would soon be asked for in the state possibly by June.

"It is being done state by state and began on the Pacific Coast," Stellwagen said. "It is working eastward."

He and other insurance men said mounting accident costs and higher damage awards by the courts are forcing the increases.

Highway Speedup Bill Retaining Billboard Controls Sent To Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $1,800,000 highway building bill with a control-the-billboards clause sped through Congress yesterday—propelled by a coalition of garden club ladies and home folks eager for federal roads money.

The billboard lobby, whose power is legendary, bit the dust before the unusual combination. There had been talk of delaying the bill to reconsider the billboard controls and other features. But an attempt to send it back to a Senate-House conference was easily beaten in the House, 222-109.

Garden clubs lobbied for the billboard controls, fearful the scenery would be obscured. In addition, state highway commissioners and others were reported to have kept in close touch with their Congress members, stressing the importance of roads money.

The big bill, designed to speed up highway program and provide jobs to counter the economic slump, now goes to President Eisenhower. It was passed just before the legislators hustled out of town for a 10-day Easter recess.

Three Purposes
The measure, a supplement to the 1956 Highway Act which set in motion a giant roadbuilding program affecting every state, has three key purposes:

1. To provide thousands of new jobs. Estimates ranged all the way from 88,000 this year to 520,000 when the acceleration features of the bill take effect.

2. To put the construction of the 41,000-mile superhighway network—the interstate system—back on the original 13-year schedule. A long stretch-out had been in prospect because of financing difficulties and greatly increased cost estimates.

3. To establish for the first time a national policy of regulating billboards on the interstate system and giving the states incentives to carry out this policy. For signing agreements to regulate billboards, states would get a bonus of 1/2 to 1 per cent of the cost of the interstate segment regulated by the agreement.

$1.8 Billion
The bill makes available this year $1,800,000,000 more in federal state funds than could be programmed under present law. It calls for an over-all federal-state highway program this year totaling about 5 1/2 billion dollars.

The bill goes considerably farther than the highway speedup recommendations made to Congress by Secretary of Commerce Weeks for the administration.

Nevertheless, sponsors said they believed it would be signed in view of the heavy vote for it in both houses.

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Highways Department reported yesterday it will undertake $28,800,000 worth of highway projects if Congress approves a $1,800,000,000 anti-recession highway bill.

The department said it has 31 projects for which plans have been completed. All of the projects can be placed in areas where unemployment is the most severe, it added.

Roads Chief Pledges Aid Against Signs

HARRISBURG (AP)—Lewis M. Stevens, state highways secretary yesterday again pledged his support of federal legislation aimed at controlling billboard advertising along federal interstate highways.

The legislation, part of a 5 billion dollar appropriation for federal interstate highways, would give added aid to states that impose billboard controls. Stevens said if the bill is passed in Washington, it will be his and other persons duty to convince the state Legislature to enact legislation which will make Pennsylvania eligible for the additional money through billboard control measures.

Air Force Fires Snark

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force launched a Snark guided missile yesterday on what may have been the fifth successful flight of more than 5,000 miles for an unmanned bomber.

The Snark is currently the most accurate—although among the slower moving—of the nation's long-range weapons.

Bangor Opens Campaign For New Industry

BANGOR—Four hundred persons last night attended a meeting at the Blue Valley Farm Show Building in an effort to raise $70,000 as a community loan toward bringing Heyer Industries to the State Belt area.

The principal speaker at the meeting, sponsored by the State Belt Development Corp., was John F. Haran, plant location representative of the Pennsylvania State Department of Commerce. Haran said the Bangor area has until April 15 to subscribe the $70,000 needed.

Ernest Turzto, president of the State Belt Development Corp., reported that 940 persons are currently unemployed in the State Belt, and that some 700 applications have been received for positions in the new firm should it settle in the State Belt.

Banks Cooperate
Four State Belt banks have agreed, it was reported, to underwrite $175,000 of the money needed for the first mortgage for the new industry.

The banks and the amount agreed upon are: The Merchants Bank of Bangor, $72,000; the First National Bank of Bangor, $60,000; the Pen Argyl, $23,000; and the Citizens Bank of Wind Gap, $20,000.

It was also reported that the annual payroll of the new industry would be $1,450,000 per year.

Ike Requests Big Overhaul Of Military

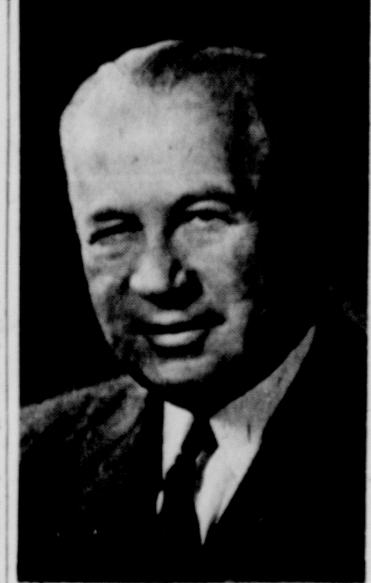

WASHINGTON (AP)—A far-reaching overhaul of the U. S. defense setup, concentrating control over military money and missions in the secretary of defense, was proposed to Congress yesterday by President Eisenhower.

Signaling the start of what may be a historic fight in Capitol Hill, the President emphasized that major reorganization is necessary to end interservice bickering and promote fighting efficiency.

He outlined his aims in this paragraph:

"Strategic and tactical planning must be completely unified, combat forces organized into unified commands, each equipped with the most efficient weapons systems that science can develop, singly led and prepared to fight as one, regardless of service."

The presidential message produced some approving comment but also rumblings of doubt in a Congress where each of the three armed services has its champions.

R. LeRoy Dengler

Work Might Start By April 15

R. LEROY DENGLER, chairman of Mount Pocono Airport Authority, last night hailed appropriation of an additional $17,000 by County Commissioners as:

"The finest news we've had in months. This means that we should be able to get things rolling in a matter of days."

Dengler also praised the fact that yesterday's commission action was completely unanimous and bi-partisan.

The chairman immediately made plans to return to Monroe County from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where he has been vacationing.

In a telegram received by The Daily Record last night, he said he will be back by April 11. He said he "hopes to see some activity" on study of contract awards "by April 15."

Authority members have been setting their sights on Labor Day as the target date for completion of the initial phase of airport construction.

No new estimates of a complete data have been made during recent weeks.

Minimum Pay Clarity Asked

HARRISBURG (AP)—William L. Batt, secretary of labor and industry asked the retail minimum wage board yesterday to spell out how commission payments to store employees should be fitted into the minimum wage retail schedule.

Batt said he had accepted the board's recommendations on minimum wages, but wanted clarification on the question of commissions as related to minimum wages. Batt said the board was divided on how commissions should be handled.

The board will re-submit its report before April 29, Batt said.

Commissioners' Action Assures $400,000 Project

By Leonard Randolph
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS — In an across-the-board show of bi-partisanship—yesterday removed the roadblock from construction of a new Pocono Mountains Airport.

They approved allocation of an additional $17,000 to Mount Pocono Airport Authority. Commissioners had already appropriated $50,000 to be paid to the authority in 10 yearly $5,000 sums.

Possible construction of the airport has been stymied for nearly five months. The authority, which had originally estimated that the airport cost would be only $300,000, was forced to raise its estimate.

In attempting to secure the additional $100,000 needed, the authority received immediate action from the Federal and State governments.

Commissioners, however, expressed a belief that the authority should seek participation in the project from local townships and boroughs—even if it was only token in nature.

East Stroudsburg Borough Council refused to discuss possible participation in the airport, earlier this week. Stroudsburg Council took no action. Neither did Stroud Township nor Delaware Water Gap Borough.

Yesterday morning, in regular meeting, W. Adolph Rake, minority Republican commissioner, prefaced a discussion of the airport with the remark:

"I think we ought to give them the extra $17,000 and get it over with. We should make the appropriation and just tell them to go ahead and construct the airport."

Commission chairman John R. Lesoine—who has pressed for construction of the airport consistently in the past—immediately agreed.

Said Lesoine: "We might as well face the fact that an airport is going to be a tremendous advantage to the whole County. Air travel is the coming thing. When we first began to talk about the air field, we had letters and phone calls from more than a dozen local industries who wanted us to know they had to depend, many times, on air shipments. They are fully in favor of the airport."

Lost Forever
"With all the effort that's been made to get money from the Federal and State governments under present administrations, we can't run the risk by delaying the project. This money might never be made available again."

"We have to start somewhere. This may not be the airport that we'll need years from now—and I don't think there's any doubt they're going to need more money—but if we don't get started we'll be just that much further behind."

Willard Quick, with Lesoine the majority Democratic membership of the commission, called attention to the "great value of the airport during an emergency."

Quick said: "During that 1955 flood, I don't know what we'd have done without the help we got from those helicopters that landed at the airport. It's too bad some of the people on Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg Council can't remember these things when they start saying an airport isn't going to do them any good. I mean, this is outside the value the airport is going to have in the years to come where business is concerned."

Commissioners are already holding $15,000 for the authority. This represents three $5,000 budgetary allocations for 1956-57-58. They have agreed to turn the money over to authority when ground is broken for the project.

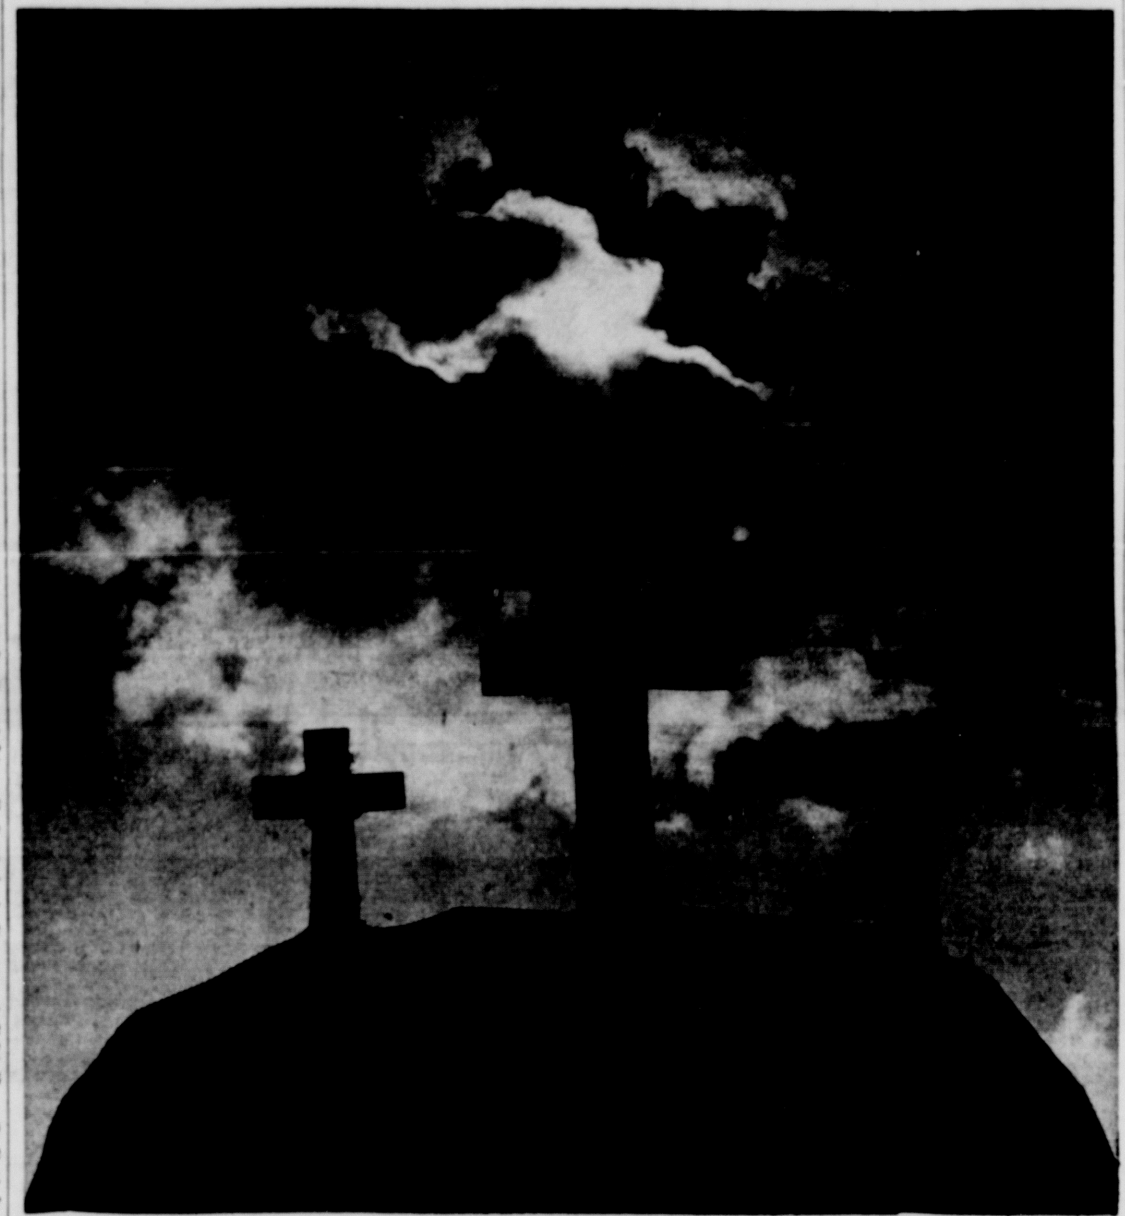

In yesterday's action, Rake introduced a motion to allot the extra $17,000 needed. It was added to the $35,000 still due the Authority under the original $50,000 appropriation. This total—$52,000—will be paid to Authority in seven equal yearly allotments of $7,500 each.

Rake's motion was quickly seconded by Quick. It passed unanimously.

Titan Given Edge
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force's Titan may be the first U. S. rocket to carry man into space, Secretary of Defense McElroy suggested yesterday.

Good Morning!
A woman says, "I certainly can keep a secret, but the other girls I tell it to can't."

SOMETHING BEYOND DARKNESS—My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken me? And from the dark sky, Death tore from Man his Son and the Son of God. The world crept on in desolation toward a destiny only God could plan. From this enormous shadow of a cross in a place of dead men and skulls and bones of human bodies, came the new birth of the human soul. There was light for all men in this darkness and this death. For without the final human death of a carpenter who lives forever, there could have been no life for Man. Quiet, now! The sun is disappearing. His last hour is here. "By this shall all men know that you are My disciples: if you have love one for another."

Solemnity Marks Today's Good Friday Observance

THE most solemn day in the Christian calendar—Good Friday—will be marked by residents of Monroe County today.

Services commemorating the Crucifixion of Christ at Gethsemane will be held in most of the communities' churches this afternoon.

Virtually all business will be suspended from 1 to 3 p.m. to permit employees and customers alike to join in the services.

The Monroe County Court House will be closed all day today and tomorrow.

The boroughs' four banks will close during the afternoon but will be open for their regular Friday evening hours.

Post offices throughout the county will operate on their normal schedule and mail will be delivered.

The office of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service will be open during normal hours for claims, but a reduced staff will be on the job.

Offices of some public utilities will be closed all day. Most departments of The Daily Record will operate on normal schedules and there will be an issue of this newspaper tomorrow.

Supervision Of Voting
Guell said the government would agree to supervision of the elections by an international agency—such as the Organization of American States—if the opposition parties desired.

He said government forces have not yet made an all-out effort to blast Castro's forces out of their mountain hideouts in Oriente Province, but he asserted they are fully capable of crushing any disorder. He predicted the next few days or months would spell the end of the rebellion.

Castro's attempt to overthrow the regime by violence, Guell said, will only bring chaos and bloodshed. He reiterated earlier government charges that Communists and professional agitators are behind Cuba's troubles.

Talk of a general strike subsidized like a receding tide in this nervous capital. Whether rebel leader Fidel Castro would go ahead with his call for a strike to unseat President Fulgencio Batista was anyone's guess.

Most stores, businesses and industries closed for Good Friday and some will stay closed until Monday.

A series of decrees put into effect by President Batista's Cabinet at dawn, under the state of emergency, made it almost a criminal offense even to talk of a strike.

Bob Heller Dealer In Used Cars

ANOTHER new Monroe County business begins formal operations today.

R. E. (Bob) Heller, who boasts 18 years' experience in automotive sales, is now entering the used car business for himself.

His showroom is located at 474 N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg. Heller, who is a native of this area, said he will specialize in "selected used cars" among the "low priced three".

Heller resides with his wife and three children at Minisink Hills.

DONALD HOLMGREN of 581 Main St., Stroudsburg, local franchise dealer for Stride-Rite shoes for children informed The Daily Record yesterday that the Green Shoe Manufacturing Co. has turned out its 50 millionth pair of Stride-Rite shoes.

This milestone occurs at a time when many shoe manufacturers are thinking in terms of cutbacks, and are chary of predictions as to the future. But the Green firm is looking and planning for a continuance of the growth which, in less than 50 years, has made it the largest concern of its kind in the country.

Currently, its daily average of 17,600 pairs is believed to be one of the highest production rates of any single shoe factory unit in the nation.

This development has taken place under continuous family operation, specializing in children's shoes and confined to a single high-grade branded line. The success formula can best be summed up in the single word, "quality".

SOMETHING new has been added to the Fabric Mart located in the Grand Theater Building in East Stroudsburg. In addition to their complete line of fabrics, Donna Meyers has added a new line of ladies dresses. The new line features mostly one-of-a-kind dresses in a wide assortment of junior and regular sizes in all the latest styles and fabrics. The store has recently been remodeled to make room for the new dress line.

TWO First-Stroudsburg National Bank employees were among 300 bank officials who gathered in Philadelphia Tuesday and Wednesday to see a demonstration of how check processing can be speeded by the use of electronic bookkeeping equipment.

The two, H. P. Merring, cashier, and Joseph A. Lisicky, an assistant cashier, witnessed the demonstration at the First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust Co.

Priorities Announced For Western Shortway

THE western section of the Keystone Shortway scheduled to be placed under construction this year involves start of a 27-mile by-pass of Brookville.

It will bring to 59 miles the total work on sections of the Shortway and its connecting links this year.

In a report to Gov. George M. Leader, Lewis M. Stevens, secretary of highways, wrote that the western construction will include "one section . . . by-passing Brookville and tying in with U. S. Route 322 west of Brookville. Assurances, oral and written, have been received from the consulting engineers that final design plans will be completed in time to make possible advertising for bids on this section within eight months, i.e., by November, 1958."

Stevens added, "Thereafter, we believe progression east and west could continue to be undertaken consecutively or alternately."

The western projects, in order, as listed by Stevens are:

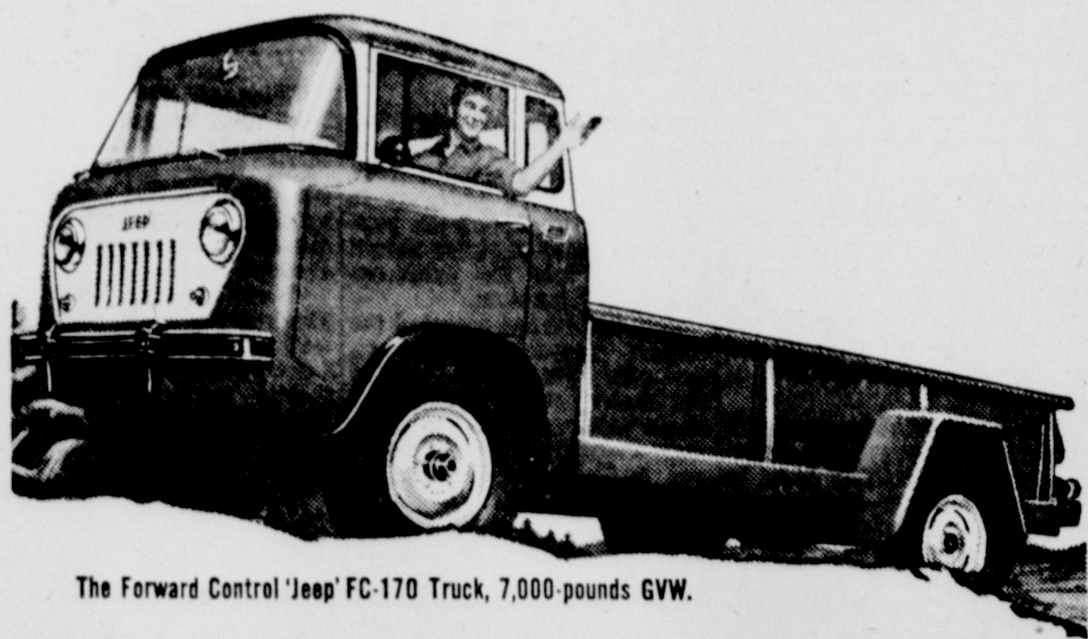

1. Construct the section from the intersection of U. S. Route 322, by-passing Clarion to the south to an intersection with Route 68.
2. Construct the section from intersection of Route 68 to Route 8, including new Clarion River bridge.
3. Construct the section from intersection of U. S. Route 322 west of Sandy Valley to U. S. Route 119-219 south of DuBois.
4. Construction of the section from U. S. Route 119-219 to Route 153 north of Clearfield.
5. Construct the section from Route 8 to intersection with FAI 4 (the Erie - Pittsburgh Freeway).
6. Construct section from U. S. Route 220 westward to Pennsylvania Route 153 north of Clearfield.
7. Construct the section from FAI 41 to the Ohio line.

The planning and research section of the Dept. of Highways has specifically approved the two sections—the Brookville bypass and a 12-mile section in the east from Crescent Lake to the western terminus of the Stroudsburg Thruway—as of first priority.

Public Hearings
A series of public hearings to conform to the provisions of the Federal Highway Act will be held along the proposed route of the Shortway this spring and summer. A schedule of hearings will be announced later.

The department recommended inclusion of the Shortway on the Interstate System to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads on July 6, 1956, six days after passage of the highway act.

Approval of the department's recommendation by Bertram D. Tallamy, federal highway administrator, was announced May 22, 1957.

Flow Line Replacement Set In May

HAWLEY — Replacement of the second half of the 33-year-old wood-stave flow line from Lake Wallenpaupack to the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co.'s hydroelectric station near here will begin in May.

The first half of the 3½-mile-long line was replaced with steel in 1956.

The company will take steps to keep residents of the area, owners of summer cottages and operators of recreational projects in the lake section informed of the work scheduled and its expected effect on the water level of the big lake.

Group Plans Plant Tour

MEMBERS of the Lehigh Valley Section of the American Welding Society will tour the Patterson-Kelley Co. plant in East Stroudsburg Monday night.

Assembling at Walp's Restaurant, midway between Allentown and Bethlehem, members and guests will begin the evening with dinner at 6 p.m. An hour later, the group will proceed to East Stroudsburg via bus.

The tour of the plant, an engineering and manufacturing firm of heat transfer equipment, is scheduled to begin at 8:30.

Tobyhanna Village Owes $155,246

Assessment Consideration Requested

TOBYHANNA Village has had a turbulent history.

Constructed four years ago to provide housing for military personnel and their families at Tobyhanna Signal Depot, "The Village" has had a hot-and-cold existence.

All of its symptoms have been financial. First of all, the Village has never been completely filled. Its highest occupancy has been somewhere in the neighborhood of 50 percent.

Last year, in an effort to put life into the tiny community, officials of Tobyhanna Village Inc. lowered rentals on apartments. They still went begging.

Nothing Helped

Its mortgage was reassigned. New policies were put in force. Nothing much helped.

Yesterday, Monroe County Commissioners got a letter from William A. Kelly, director of the corporation's official voice. Kelly traced the details of the Village's history.

He ended by noting that it now has a "delinquency" of $155,246.77 as of Feb. 28, 1958. For these reasons, and others, the Village should be given special consideration when assessment rolls are made up, Kelly said.

Commissioners have been faced with a plea from Tobyhanna Village before. John R. Lesoine, commission chairman, said "they appealed an assessment before — but then they didn't show up for the hearing."

The county decided that nothing can be done for the Village right now. Once the new equalization program is ready to go into effect, commissioners said, they might consider the case again.

Properties Transferred

SIX DEEDS were filed yesterday in the office of Floyd Butz, register and recorder, including:

William H. Cameron, Jr., and Claire A. Cameron, Chestnut Hill Township, to Emily K. Murdock, Berwyn; John J. Peterson, Jr., Riverton, N. J., and Gertrude Gieseke, Bethlehem, RD 3, lots in Chestnut Hill Township (three deeds);

H. M. Johnson, East Stroudsburg, to Clifford H. and Louise A. Johnson, Stroudsburg, lot in Stroud Township; Karl E. and Anne R. Orter, Lakewood, N.J., RD 1, to Carl J. and Frances Adelmenn, Stroudsburg, lot in Stroud Township;

Luther A. Van Why, Sr., and Daisy L. Van Why, Bushkill, to William P. McGinnis, Brooklyn, N. Y., and James E. McGinnis, Bronx, N. Y., lot in Middle Smithfield Township.

Coco Home Damaged By Fire

FIRE OF undetermined origin broke out about 9:30 a. m. yesterday in the two-story frame dwelling of Charles Coco, near the rear of 408 Main St., but was rapidly brought under control and extinguished by Stroudsburg firemen.

Fire Chief Millard Marsh said damages were not officially estimated. The blaze he said, started in a second floor bedroom near a portable closet.

There was "a lot of smoke and heat" from the flames, he remarked, and some clothing and shoes were damaged by fire as it swept through the closet. Firemen returned to the station, he said, at 10:30 p. m.

Fenner Asks More Space For Office

COUNTY Prothonotary N. Henry Fenner has his own "space" to worry about in this new "space age."

It has nothing to do with jet propulsion, rockets to the moon or housebroken satellite dogs, however.

Fenner's office files, books and the services of the office have outgrown the space he has for them.

Yesterday Fenner appeared before County Commissioners to talk the matter over. Commissioners have discussed it many times among themselves during recent months.

Study Under Way

Fenner was told that the county is now studying possible additional space allocations for his and other Court House offices. A full study—using the services of the architectural firm of Rinker and Kiefer—is now under way.

Eventually, Fenner's office will probably spread out to quarters now occupied by Civil Defense.

In reference to this, at one point, Commission Chairman John R. Lesoine brought laughs to the meeting with this exchange between himself and Fenner:

"Well, Henry, you know where you're going to have to go, sooner or later, don't you?"

Replied Prothonotary Fenner: "You bet I do, John. But if it's all the same to you, I'd rather not think about that."

Falling Plaster Bars Public Meetings In Main Court Room Of County Building

MONROE County Commissioners and President Judge Fred W. Davis agreed yesterday that the Main Court Room at the Court House should be "off limits" to public meetings until ceiling repairs have been made.

Initial direct effect of the ruling would be to change the meeting place of the Monroe County School Directors Assn. It was slated for Tuesday night and its primary item of business is the election of the county superintendent.

Inspection Made Commissioners and Judge

Davis inspected the court room yesterday morning.

One large section of plaster molding has already fallen from the balcony section of the ceiling. Prominent cracks have appeared elsewhere in the ceiling and molding.

Commissioners voted to call in an expert contractor to examine the ceiling and determine what repairs are needed.

Placed In 1890s

Such inspection and possible work may force transfer of scene for the May term of court to Court Room No. 2, also.

W. Adolph Rake, a contractor and member of the board of commissioners, estimated that the ceiling in the room had been put up when it was constructed "sometime in the late 1890s."

Rake said that "contraction and expansion" due to weather conditions caused plaster to deteriorate and crack. Commissioners Willard Quick and John R. Lesoine agreed that a complete inspection of the courtroom would be needed.

ROUTE 90 SECTION UNDER RECONSTRUCTION—Construction crews have begun relocation and rebuilding of Route 90 from the Cherry Valley Road to the Northampton County line after some delay by the last snowfall of Winter. State Highway Department officials report several sharp

Passover Rites At Temple Israel Tonight Mark Opening Of Jewish Freedom Festival

PASSOVER services will be held at Temple Israel today and Saturday at 6:30 p. m. with Rabbi Joshua Soddan in charge. Services will also be held at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow and 8:30 a. m. Sunday.

Passover, the Jewish festival of freedom, recalls the liberation of the Jews from slavery in Egypt. As the Israelites, under the leadership of Moses, prepared to leave Egypt, they received this command:

"And this day shall be unto you for a memorial and yet shall keep it a feast unto the Lord. . . Seven days shall ye put away leaven out of your houses. . . And ye shall observe the feast of the unleavened bread, for in this self-same day have I brought your hosts out of the land of Egypt. Therefore shall ye observe this day throughout your generations by an ordinance forever." The holiday is marked by observances in the temple and at home. On the first two nights of Passover, a Seder ceremony takes place in the home after temple services. The first Seder, meaning order, was celebrated by the Israelites about 33 centuries ago upon the night of their departure from Egypt.

Matzos, unleavened bread, is eaten on Passover because in their haste to depart from Egypt "the Israelites took their dough before it was leavened and they baked unleavened cakes of the dough which they brought forth out of Egypt."

An introductory service will be held at 7:30 a. m. today in Temple Israel with the ritual of the first born being conducted.

School Bus Figures Revised

REVISED FIGURES for payments of transportation costs to districts in East Stroudsburg Area Jointure were released yesterday by the State Department of Public Instruction.

In a letter to Walter H. Sebring, assistant Monroe County superintendent of schools, W. I. Bevan, specialist in the division of accounts and audits of the DPI, said that his office will process proper payments as soon as possible.

Payments listed by Bevan are: East Stroudsburg Borough—$16,327.30; Middle Smithfield Township—$2,329.14; Price Township—$617.85; Smithfield Township—$5,735.28.

The department's accounting division had made an error in earlier calculation of transportation reimbursements, Sebring said.

Road Workers Okay Program

UNION employees of the State Highway Department in Monroe and five other counties have agreed to endorse a 15-point program for negotiations.

The meeting, in Allentown, was attended by some 70 members of Local 999, Pennsylvania State Employees Council, AFL-CIO.

Edwin Mossmiller, a council organizer from Harrisburg, outlined the 15-point program before the group, and Samuel W. Frank of Allentown spoke on social security benefits.

The local was organized last September and comprises members from Lehigh, Carbon, Northampton, Schuylkill and Berks, in addition to Monroe.

Picketing Continues

PARTIME picketing of the construction site of the First-Stroudsburg National Bank's Arlington Heights branch continued yesterday.

A bank spokesman said work was continuing despite the picketing.

Charles L. Frank, local contractor for the job, said last night that "a couple" of pickets were around "part of the time."

Picketing began Wednesday by members of the Monroe-Pike County Building Trades Council. A union spokesman said the picket was placed in an attempt to organize non-union employees of Frank.

Back On The Track

Congratulations are due today to all those individuals who were instrumental in bringing flood protection closer to reality for the Stroudsburgs.

Although the project has not yet been signed, sealed and delivered, prospects are looking up as the result of Stroudsburg Council's decision to increase its contribution to the fund being raised in the county as our modest share of the $2,800,000 program.

The Daily Record has been critical of the way certain phases of the local fund-raising have progressed. It has felt that each political sub-division affected by the flood control program should assume its rightful obligation so that the entire area would not lose the protection it needs so vitally.

Against this background, The Daily Record is happy to express its appreciation—and that of all citizens of the Stroudsburgs—to the councils of the two boroughs, to the county commissioners and to the Citizen's Committee for Flood Control for resolving the flood control matter.

Special praise must go to the three men who headed the Citizens' Committee—H. G. Sanborn Jr., J. L. Kerlin and Clifford Cramer—for their skill in handling the "delicate" negotiations with the three municipal bodies and with the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. and other utilities.

In the years to come, we are confident the people of this community will thank those responsible for bringing flood protection to the Stroudsburgs at only a small fraction of the total cost, a figure which represents just an infinitesimal part of the damage suffered by the community in the 1955 flood.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Tinker With Care

It's a hard thing to question help for the unemployed but projects now before Congress require some calm examination. They could do a relatively small amount of temporary good at the risk of great future harm.

They deal with unemployment compensation, once a radical scheme which has become a routine feature of our industrial system and is progressively accepted as a sound insurance system.

The plan has been capably administered by the states for the most part and the basis for gradual improvement has been established. Its sliding-scale tax system on payrolls has been a strong incentive against whimsical layoffs and thus has helped accomplish a principal purpose, which is to keep people working.

Emergency proposals, by both the Administration and the Democrats, would extend the duration of payments out of reserve funds, federalizing the system at least in part and setting a precedent for complete defederalization. They would affect the states in varying degree. They would offer nothing to workers not included under the system, whose actual need may be greatest of all.

Beyond all this, the excited urge to "do something" would use this insurance system as a means of distributing relief, thus establishing a trend which could wreck the whole plan.

The present need for relief varies widely, being severe in some relatively limited areas and hardly existing in others.

It seems to us it would be safer and sounder to let the states handle their own special problems, on a frank basis of relief if necessary. These proposed changes risk demoralization of a plan which has worked well in the past and should continue efficient service long after this flurry in business and employment is forgotten.

The Pennsylvania Story

Democrats Confident

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Pennsylvania Democrats quite definitely feel that 1958 is "their year."

Pin down one of the top leaders of the party as to "why" and invariably there is an uneasy finger — under the collar — twitch with a comment something like:

"Well, it's hard to pinpoint — but we just 'feel' it's there."

Is it or isn't it? No one knows for sure of course.

But there is a spanking difference between the Democratic outlook of 1958 and that of four years ago.

Four years ago in fact, no one gave a thought to a Democratic victory in the gubernatorial runoff which saw Democrat George M. Leader move into king's row as the first donkey rider in a score of years.

Even the first year after the noted Democratic ascent, Pennsylvania Democrats were still walking around in a complete fuff-much as though they had not won the gubernatorial sweepstakes only a year before.

Change In Interim

The intervening three years however have wrought a definite change in Democrats of the Keystone State.

Nowhere is it more noticeable than here on Capitol Hill. They have hitched up their suspenders and gone to work. They still do not have the smooth, fine-running victory machine arch-rival Republicans once flaunted.

They do however have the putt-putt sparkling effectiveness of "youngsters" determined to go somewhere.

This in effect undoubtedly is one of their key factors. Most of the top Democratic leaders today believe that 1954 can be repeated in 1958.

This is their conviction even in the face of a GOP registration edge.

Why? Again, it can only be summed up as being a "hunch" on their part.

At first the 1954 gubernatorial win of Governor Leader in the face of seemingly almost insurmountable Republican registration odds appeared to be one of those ghostly lightning-strikes-but-once affairs.

Today the attitude of Democratic old pols on Capitol Hill has veered. To them 1954 has become a symbol — and an indication of things to come in 1958.

The Republican registration edge is still there, although certainly considerably whittled down from the yawning gap of four years ago.

In the intervening years there have been no really outstanding victories at the polls Democrats can look toward as indicators of flooding strength.

They have gained control of a few courthouses in the interim, failed to gain control of the GOP held State Senate, lost their brief upper hand grip on the State House of Representatives which they held in the 1955-56 session — and in 1956 failed to capture the two statewide offices then up for consideration: State Treasurer and State Auditor General. They did win a U.S. Senate seat.

None of this however fazes Democratic old pols who are playing their hunch as they never have before.

By no stretch of the imagination do they have the organizational set-up they would like to have. Four years did not provide enough time.

What they like to think of as a still wobbling GOP organization is their basic answer.

November holds the answer.

George Sokolsky Says...

Tito On Democracy

One cannot help wondering what compulsion — yes this country to subsidize its enemies, particularly Tito who has received over $1,000,000,000 of the American taxpayer's money.

Take Tito's election speech in Belgrade, delivered March 16, 1958, as an example. Tito is running as a delegate to the Federal Council. He is surprised that the people of this particular district of Belgrade chose him. "I wonder why they chose me, since I was not so active in their district?" This wonderment must have been exclusively Tito's as he chose himself and there was no opposition candidate.

So he makes a comparison between East and West. He says:

"... many newspapers and various storytellers in the West speak about the undemocratic manner of our elections. I do not know what they consider democratic..."

"Comrades, in various countries there are, for instance, several parties. Our system is different, it is a socialist system. I will be more exact. They have a capitalistic system, a multiparty system and their elections are marked by the class struggle."

"Class struggle exists there. I will not say that the class struggle is being waged among bourgeois parties, several of them. But this is a tactical matter to enlist more voters for their side and for 'various' programs which are as similar as one egg to another."

"There are also some workers parties but the people and these parties hardly anywhere achieve full expression. Yet, their election struggle is waged under the sign of a class struggle. They fight for the strengthening of their so-called democratic system, the capitalist system. We, we have a socialist system."

Now you have seen it and now you know. No American will recognize Tito's description of an American election. Tito plans to abolish direct elections. He said:

"... Our electoral system still has an element of the old classic electoral system based on the class struggle."

It is during such a period that the politicians get away with anything. What they like is for all of them to sip from the same straw; then they know that everybody is getting the same syrup.

But when we stop making men-gods out of politicians and other public servants and when we kick them about for the corruptions and indecencies, they stop, for a while, to eat our bread and to drink our wine, out of house and home, as the expression goes.

It is then that we choose different politicians not because we believe that they will be any better than those whom we dispossessed, but because experience has shown that when a gang is in office too long, it gets used to believing its own publicity. Nothing worse can happen to a public man.

Bible Thought

CUTIES

—By E. Simms Campbell

Once Over As Viewed By Phillips

Those new women's styles make them look so weird it's a case of "from bags to witches." I just told my wife they were designed by frustrated blimp designers and that one of the new gowns gave her the appearance of a gal caught under a falling delatessen-store canopy. I added that looking at her I saw every thing I could see in a balloon ascension except the basket or trapeze. And I threw in a crack that she should take it off and use it as a slipcover for a couch.

"Red" Buttons complains that since his serious role in the Japanese film nobody accepts him as a comedian and expects him to be sad. "I've even been offered a place on 'This Is Your Life' as crying background," he says.

States, cities and towns here and there are suddenly sensing the sad plight of the railroads. Westchester County government officials admit they're a sick industry and need help. It's refreshing to think that Casey Jones has another daddy on the "Fair Play Line."

What America needs as a recession cure is the slogan, "I'll buy that." Elfrida Von Nordoff, current sensation of TV "Twenty-One," is an extra smart gal but we still think anybody who gets up around $75,000 on a quiz show would be smarter to quit when ahead. Elfrida worked herself into playing for $1,000 a point, showing gameness, but is it real head work to stand a chance of losing $10,000 in space of a few minutes?

To those who saw Walter Huston in the original play, Burl Ives is almost comic in Hollywood's "Desire Under the Elms." Ives is a talented performer but in no way suggests the hard, taut, stern character of Ephraim Stern, rugged New England farmer, as painted by O'Neill and as played by Huston. Burl Ives makes it seem like "Desire Under the Folk Songs."

Top American songwriters, noted for wonderful melodies, have charged before Congress that under airwave controls much of the music dished out is hillbilly stuff.

Inside Washington

Politicians Move Carefully On Tax Cuts

Washington—The question of a tax cut has both Democrats and Republicans watching each other like hawks for signs of a false move by the other side. Each party wants the credit for any tax reduction.

The behind-the-scenes maneuvering was never more evident than when Senator Frank Carlson (R), Kansas, recently left a White House meeting and reported that specific tax proposals were discussed.

Only a few minutes later, Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland emerged from the session and emphatically denied that the Republican chiefs had talked with President Eisenhower about any definite tax cut plan.

In addition, the Treasury department promptly issued a statement denying that Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson, who attended the conference, had discussed tax cut proposals.

The reason: GOP leaders have an "understanding" with Democratic leaders in Congress that neither party will advance a tax cut without prior consultation with the other.

Knowland and Anderson wanted to make sure that the Democrats didn't get the idea that they were being double-crossed and the administration was secretly preparing a tax-cut measure.

Polish Thaw—State department experts are studying authoritative reports that capitalist-style small business in Communist Poland has made a spectacular comeback in the past year with the tacit approval of party boss Wladyslaw Gomulka.

Latest evidence of a free enterprise resurgence comes from reliable data indicating a whopping rise in artisan work, shops from 39,000 last year to 138,000 or more at the present time.

The workshops, even in capitalist European lands, are made up of craftsmen who turn out goods for their own profit rather than as part of the ponderous state economic machine.

Officials in Washington say the beginning of the private enterprise upswing in the Red satellite state dates from October, 1956, when Gomulka flatly told Kremlin bosses to keep "hands off" Polish internal affairs.

He is working hard at trying to control his trigger temper. It's more than a month now since the explosive

That will take a lot of doing, Hagerty readily admits. But he has confidence in his will power, and there's a potent reason behind his resolution.

The doctors strongly advised it. This occurred when Hagerty went to Walter Reed Hospital for treatment of his ulcers. They had flared up after sev-

Good Evening Ladies!

Grounds For Divorce

By Ken Duval

When the bride at the wedding reception told me, laughing gaily all the time, that she couldn't "boil" coffee, I gave the marriage six months. The six months aren't up yet, but I'm watching the daily column in our paper captioned "Divorces Asked."

This kid, I warn, better not let her shorthand lapse. More coffee is drunk in this country than in any other, but, to get a good cup of the stuff you have to hunt for it. There is small consolation in the fact that even the worst cup of American coffee is better than you can get in any other country.

No fault attaches to the blenders and purveyors of coffee who produce a superb product. The tragedy is that far too few wives and restaurant proprietors ever take the trouble to learn how to brew it. Along with desertion, infidelity, chronic drunkenness and mental cruelty, failure to learn how to make coffee should be included in the divorce grounds of every state.

Don't bother to write me, ladies, and tell me that if a man really loves his wife he'll tolerate her bum coffee. I just don't believe it. No matter how much a man loves his wife, if he wakes up on the morning after his wedding night and gets a cup of coffee that tastes like sheep dip, something dies inside him.

In my school for prospective brides, which I expect to open as soon as the furniture arrives, one of the main courses will be "The Anatomy and Psychology of Husbands in the Morning." By taking this course, prospective brides will learn about the changes that take place in a man after a night's sleep. It will teach that no matter how cheerful and loving a husband is at bedtime, he feels like hell in the morning.

He Hates The World

For one thing, a man's blood sugar is low in the morning and his metabolism has slowed down to a walk. He swims up from the depths of sleep gasping for air and wondering where he is. Then it comes to him that this is another day, he has to shave and dress, drive to the office and meet the boss who undoubtedly will be in a foul mood. This is also the day when another payment on the car is due. This man who, just a few hours before, was a gay, lovable chap with a gulp in his lips, is now a grouchy who hates the world and everything in it.

He comes downstairs, kicks the dog and snarls good morning at his wife. But let's say she is a wise girl who has taken my preparatory course. She has learned that a pound of coffee makes 40 good cups, no more or less. Any less produces a liquid that is fine for shining harness or covering rust spots on the car, but no good for drinking. Any more makes a good eyewash for brown eyes, but does nothing for the spirits.

In five minutes, this lucky husband is back on his feet. He kisses his wife passionately, leaps into his car and at the office he greets the boss so sweetly the big baboon hasn't the heart to growl at him. He writes a check for the car payment with a happy flourish.

But consider the fate of Joe Blow on the other side of town. Joe's wife has been getting 60 cups to the pound. Joe not only kicked the dog as he left the house, but his wife, too. On the way downtown he got arrested for reckless driving. When the boss snarled at him, he snarled back and is now out of a job. He has taken to drink and his wife has drawn up a bill of divorce against him, mentioning everything in the book except her coffee. He won't contest.

There was nothing the matter with Joe that a decent cup of coffee in the morning wouldn't cure. Ladies, are your marriages worth saving? If so, take my words to heart.

Latest evidence of a free enterprise resurgence comes from reliable data indicating a whopping rise in artisan work, shops from 39,000 last year to 138,000 or more at the present time.

The workshops, even in capitalist European lands, are made up of craftsmen who turn out goods for their own profit rather than as part of the ponderous state economic machine.

Officials in Washington say the beginning of the private enterprise upswing in the Red satellite state dates from October, 1956, when Gomulka flatly told Kremlin bosses to keep "hands off" Polish internal affairs.

On occasions, that's taken a lot of dogged effort. There have been times when Hagerty has had to take himself forcefully in hand to avoid a stormy outburst. He has had to remind himself that he must grin and bear it, no matter what the provocation.

On The Spot—An instance of that was his trying encounter with a group of plain-talking Amherst students.

On a three-day visit to Washington for a first-hand scrutiny of government officials and agencies, the Amherst seniors had the opportunity to question Hagerty about his job. The youngsters were courteous and respectful, but at the same time they pulled no punches.

Despite their frank outspokenness, Hagerty took their questioning genially in stride. Throughout, he gave no hint of irritation or impatience.

Graphically illustrative of this impressive feat by the "new" Hagerty, are the following highlights of this intriguing discussion:

After Hagerty had been talking for a while, one of the Amherst students asked, "You constantly refer to 'we.' Just what do you mean by that? Are you speaking about yourself, the President, or whom?"

"We are a team here," replied Hagerty with a smile. "Every member of the President's staff is part of this team. We work that way, think that way, and I guess, now and then talk that way."

"This team that you speak of," continued another student, "has it anything to do with the statement, 'The Amherst Bridges' (R. N. H.) made recently, in a radio interview, about a 'palace guard' in the White House? What can you tell us about Senator Bridges' remark?"

Chuckling, Hagerty shook his head.

"Of course, we are consulted from time to time by the President," said Hagerty. "He consults me on matters I deal with. That is perfectly normal and proper. That's what assistants are for. Nothing wrong in that."

Day Care Operation To Change

BEGINNING this Fall, the Day Care Training Class for retarded children will be operated by Monroe County school districts rather than the state.

The move was announced yesterday by Monroe County School Board at a meeting held in the office of John C. Litts, superintendent of schools.

Decision to take over the class is a move toward better efficiency and higher economy in the operation of the special service.

County board members said after the meeting that the local school districts benefiting from the program will save an estimated 10 percent of their appropriation from the state because of the change. At present the state withholds the 10 percent from the school districts' allocations when it operates such a school for a county.

There will be two classes instead of the present one class. Walter H. Sebring, assistant county superintendent said last night. Taking over the class and adding the new one were the recommendations of Litts and his staff.

Studies Requirements
To check up on full details for county operation of the service, Dr. John Abbruzzese, County school psychologist, went to Harrisburg to study requirements. Abbruzzese will work with the service when it is inaugurated.

Litts and Abbruzzese were given full power by the County Board to set up the county-operated Day Care system. One of their first jobs will be to find suitable quarters for the classes.

At present the class is held in the YMCA building in Stroudsburg. In order to rent that room space, however, the Day Care center must pay rent on a full 12-month basis, Sebring said.

The rent is $2.25 per child per month or $756 per year under the present system. There are 28 children in the class at this time.

The Day Care class has, in recent years, served nearly every school district in Monroe County. Its aim is to train children who are ineducable in regular classrooms.

Troopers said the truck had a consigned load to New York City and was loaded with other items by burglars who broke a window to enter the John Cicerone Truck Terminal here.

Included in the load were 20 cartons of men's swimming trunks and shirts, four steel bins used for carting food, seven cartons of women's slips and numerous cases and rolls of finished and unfinished material.

Police said the thieves used a pinch bar found in the terminal to ransack desks and cabinets prior to taking the truck.

Troopers said they apparently were scared off. The truck, headed toward Port Jervis, N. Y., when it was found, was still in running condition. The investigation is being continued.

'T-I-M-B-E-R'—Thirty-eight tons of lumber spilled over on a highway near Ogden, Ut., when a trailer broke loose from a heavily-laden truck and tipped over. Tandem wheels from the truck rolled off and hit a store. Mechanical failure was blamed. The truck was righted without spilling any of the lumber.

PULLING THEIR WEIGHT—An Alaskan Husky named King sets the world's record weight pull at a competition in Homer, Alaska. The sled dog pulled 1,831 pounds with apparent ease. The load is piled onto a dog sled and the dog must pull it over a 50-foot measured course. King is a powerful four-year-old.

WILLA'S a WONDER on WATER

DID WILLA MAGUIRE really invent water skiing? No, but it may seem that way to the many thousands who have seen her artistry at Cypress Gardens, Fla., in the movies or on the sports pages. She is currently the world's champion among women water skiers. She is credited with inventing the water ballet and many of the difficult stunts performed several times daily at Cypress Gardens. Willa isn't doing an intricate stunt in the show, she is designing bathing suits or studying illustration. Some day she wants to become a commercial artist and designer. Willa is the wife and working partner of skier Red Maguire. They have a lively five-year-old towhead.

Willa goes through some warming-up exercises before showtime. She's the star.

Another easy stunt for Willa is one she does here.

CRANING THEIR NECKS—A pair of West African crowned cranes get ready to rub beaks in the springtime at the Crandon park zoo in Miami, Fla. How can anyone really say that anything is "strictly for the birds" after seeing them?

Willa shows one of cast how to do trick for show.

Thomas Never Learned Spiritual Truth: Man Cannot See What He Does Not Believe

"Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe." —John XX:25

By Patrick and Garrison
THOMAS, called Didymus, which signifies a twin, has come to be known as the embodiment of man's doubt.

Although he readily became one of the disciples of Jesus, he was never fully aware of the Master's real identity and power.

Countless times Thomas had witnessed Jesus' answers to all the questions put Him by a curious multitude. He had witnessed the miracles, and had heard Jesus say, "Said I not unto thee, if thou wouldst believe, thou shouldst see the glory of God."

But believing came hard to Thomas. The doubting apostle evidently regarded Jesus as a man with unusual powers of suggestion, by which He controlled the minds of others, and consequently their bodies. He remained quietly observant during the days of his association with Jesus. Secretly, he was convinced that a logical, reasoning mind would require more proof than a Carpenter would be able to provide that He and God were one, and that He spoke the truth.

To Thomas, Truth was what could be known, not something deeply intuited or inwardly sensed and experienced.

He was not satisfied even with the testimony of his eyes and his ears. He had to add the proof of his hands as well.

He never learned the great spiritual truth—that a man cannot see what he does not believe.

All the while that Jesus talked of His Kingdom to come, a Kingdom "not of this world," Thomas dreamed of a tangible, substantial, political realm on earth.

It is not surprising then, that although he had once asserted that he was ready to die for his Master, when he saw the soldiers coming up the hillside, with their armor and weapons gleaming in the light of torches, he turned and fled with the others.

When his friends brought him the joyful news that Jesus had indeed risen from the dead as He said He would, Thomas refused to believe it until he had felt the Savior's wounds.

Said Jesus: "Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed."

Tomorrow: Jesus.

Daily Record Survey

Need More Time, Educators Say

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles on Monroe County education. Each will be based on the results of the county-wide survey conducted by the author for The Daily Record.)

By Leonard Randolph

ASKED WHY they feel the quality of classroom teaching is lower than it need be, many local educators answered that the teacher simply does not have the time.

They feel that valuable time which should be devoted to preparation for instruction is being frittered away on the collection of lunch money, playground supervision, extra-curricular "social" events, etc.

The administrators, for the most part, are in the same boat. This is the opinion of classroom educators who point out that it is nearly impossible to supervise teachers, students or instruction when time is being eaten by countless reports, State-required forms and mountains of red tape.

Classroom teachers seem especially sympathetic to the dilemma of the supervisor. A few comments from their answers to the fourth question in the survey will suffice to illustrate the point.

—Many supervising principals have so many administrative duties they have little time to devote to actual supervision. . . . They are compelled to do so many other duties which could be taken care of by office secretaries. . . . Greater emphasis should be put on supervision which would aid instruction.

—The work load or "detail" duties of supervisors should be reduced. This would allow more time for supervision and conferences between teacher and supervisor.

—In small high schools and similar elementary schools, the principal or supervising principal occupies the role of a business manager. I would say the average supervisor spends three-fourths of his time business managing the school and a reduced one-fourth on real school supervision.

—Supervisors are too bowed-down with clerical work and petty decision-making. . . . Get the administrators into the classrooms; hire business managers and public relations men to handle the work that now occupies the time of school superintendents and principals.

There are other factors at work against the supervisor in our local school system. In addition to the myriad paper "detail" work sheets and forms, the supervisor is also forced to attempt to "cover too much ground."

One classroom teacher points out:

—There is one elementary supervisor in East Stroudsburg (Area Joint Schools) for around 1,000 students, about 43 elementary teachers. One supervisor can't handle the job alone.

The complaint, in this case, is not directed at the quality or the qualification of the supervisor. It is a plea for more individual classroom attention from the supervisor.

There is little difference, therefore, between the recommendation made here in respect to supervision and that made earlier in respect to classroom teaching.

Teachers feel their classes are too large. They would like to see them cut to between 20 and 30 pupils. This would enable the teacher to give personal attention to the individual student.

Instruction supervisors are forced to "spread themselves thin" in an attempt to give attention to all classroom teachers under their direction.

Teachers would like to see the supervisors' work load slashed.

Attention to Teacher

This would make it possible for the supervisor to give personal attention to the individual teacher, his values, his shortcomings and his problems.

Out of this individual attention, whether it is given to the student or the teachers, comes a general rise in the identification of each with the other.

If this relationship is constructed carefully enough, if it is strong enough—and if it is based upon mutual understanding and respect, we should have better teachers and better students.

Fish Official To Speak At Kresgeville

STATE FISH Commissioner Gerald Adams will be guest speaker at a meeting for Sportsmen Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Kresgeville Club House.

The meeting, sponsored by the Indian Mountain and Kunkietown Rod and Gun Clubs, will include showing of a film entitled "Let's Take a Look at Your Creel."

Also scheduled to be present at the meeting are Regional Werden Supervisor Ralph Singer and Regional Fishery Manager Buddy Jacob. The three officials, a spokesman reports, will also answer questions on fishing.

Jury System Aired By Group

HARRISBURG (AP)—The value of the grand jury system in Pennsylvania came under discussion today at a meeting of the 15-member state Constitutional Revision Commission.

The judicial sub-committee of the commission recommended that action be taken to open the door for possible abolishment of the system in Pennsylvania.

The commission has only the power to recommend rewriting or piecemeal amending of the state's 85-year-old basic law.

Alumni Of School Address East Borough Student Body

NATIONAL HONOR Society of East Stroudsburg Area Joint Senior High School presented an assembly program yesterday for all students.

The program was devoted to appearances and brief talks by alumni of the school.

Robert LaBar Heads Council At University

BANGOR—Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. LaBar of 136 S. First St., that their son, Robert, a senior in the School of Forestry at Pennsylvania State University, has been elected president of the Agriculture School Student Council.

A graduate of the Bangor Area Joint High School, LaBar was active in track at the local school as well as many other school activities. He was also active in the local Boy Scout movement prior to his matriculating at the university.

LaBar has also been notified that he has received employment with the United States Department of Agriculture and assigned to the Watershed Management Research division. His rating is given at GS-5, regarded as unusual for a new man in this field. He will report to Boise, Idaho in June.

Young People To Present Western Show

SCIOTA — The young people of Cherry Valley are presenting a "Western Show" sponsored by the Hamilton Township Elementary PTA on Saturday, April 19, at 8 p.m. at the Hamilton Township School.

Guitar pickin' and a singin', accordion solos, group singing and square dancing make up the show which includes the following: Verna Blakeslee, Judy Smickly, Joan Armitage, Harriet Kassay, Helen Poortstra, Marie Siptroth, Frances Getz, Susan and Linda Heller, Ruth Ann Price, Dottie Bordin, Ida Mae Koehler, Sara Ann Shoemaker, Sue Angie, Gertie and Linda Dennis, Karen and Shirley Metzgar, Earl Metzgar, Sam and Howard Blakeslee, Robert Field, Bobby Haney, Frankie Zeller, Earl Miller, Charles Armitage and Dale Price.

Music will be furnished by the Norman Helmsley Orchestra. Master of ceremonies is Charles Armitage.

Free square dancing will follow the show. The program is directed by Joan Armitage, director of youth on the Cherry Valley Methodist Charge.

Rhee Plans Visit

SEOUL (AP)—A joint announcement here and in Saigon yesterday said South Korea's President Syngman Rhee and his wife will visit South Viet Nam April 9-12 at the invitation of President Ngo Dinh Diem. Ngo visited here last September.

Death Penalty Over

DOVER, Del. (AP)—Gov. J. Caleb Boggs has signed a bill ending capital punishment in Delaware. The death penalty has been in effect in the state since 1628.

Douglas Smith, society secretary, opened the program with a devotional. Eugene Martin, president, explained the purpose of the meeting and noted that comments from former students at the school should prove of great value to those now attending high school.

Martin suggested that "perhaps secondary students who are often so concerned about being accepted into various areas of training should be thinking just as much about how to succeed there once they have been admitted."

Graduate Speakers

Graduates who talked to the group were:

Barbara Barron, now majoring in English Literature at Pennsylvania State University; Gerhard Gartner, East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, who discussed a program for technical boys leading to an associate degree in engineering from the Penn State Center in Allentown; Private Ronald Heller, who has just completed his nine-week basic training at Fort Dix, N. J., and Robert Gordon, a freshmen in the field of business administration at Rutgers University.

Information given in the talks included the importance of sound high school work as preparation for any field; the need for "self-analysis" as an aid in establishing goals; the proper management of time and money.

Green For Safety

LYNDHURST, England (AP)—Wild ponies of the New Forest wore luminous collars of an alarming shade of green this week in an experiment aimed to save them from traffic accidents. About 1,500 ponies roam the forest. Last year 108 were killed and 54 injured by cars on the forest highways to Britain's south coast.

President Theodore Roosevelt liked dogs. He owned a rat terrier, a St. Bernard, a bull terrier and several mongrels.

Three-Hour Good Friday Service Today In Episcopal Church To Take New Form

THE TRADITIONAL three-hour service, from noon to 3 p. m. will take a new form today at Christ Episcopal Church. In place of a series of sermons on the Seven Last Words, Rev. Charles A. Park, rector of the parish, has announced that he will use the form of service recently published by the National Council of the Episcopal Church and recommended for use in the American Church. Bishop Warneke has authorized its use in the Diocese of Bethlehem. At half-hour intervals there will be hymns sung to enable those attending to enter and leave conveniently. The times and services are given as follows:

12:12-12:30, Morning Prayer; 12:30-1, Sermon and Prayers; 1:10-1:30, Evening Prayer and Penitential Offices; 1:30-2, Way of the Cross; 2:20-2:30, Sermon and Prayers; 2:30-3, Ante-Communion, the Bidding Prayers and Collects, the Reproaches. The rector will preach the sermons, and will be assisted by the lay-readers in reading the offices.

Victory Of Cross
Fr. Park said the popular name given to this day by the Church of England in ancient times has supplemented all other designations, and happily so, for the term 'Good Friday' serves to dispel the gloom that might well settle upon the observance of the day, for we are reminded that out of mankind's dreadful act of deicide the Charity of God made of the Cross of Christ a wonderful victory.

Primitive Christians celebrated this day as one of victorious conquest over sin and death by Christ, the Eternal Son of the Eternal Father, Who was made Man and borrowed death from us that He might give us His own Life.

In the Episcopal Church, Good Friday is a day of special fasting and abstinence. By long established custom, the full celebration of the Holy Communion is omitted on this supreme day of mourning in the Christian Year. According to Anglican liturgical custom, the altar is completely stripped and bare, and the reserved Sacrament is removed to another place, for the Lord's holy Body was laid to rest in the tomb.

Grade 8—Marie Andrake, Hildegard Baumann, Martin Brennan, Laura Horn, Ricky Pierce, Jack Roeber, John Ruhlmann, Geraldine Zilko.

Grade 10—Beverly Hay, Betty Heitman, Judy Lee, Alan Strand.

Grade 11—Marie Keller, Pamela Pearson, Nellie Ruhlmann, Joan Sprague, Linda Strand, Lois Strand, Elizabeth Zilko.

Grade 12—Shirley Bitterman, Richard Bullock, Pamela Conklin, Donna Lou Sandt.

Cub Scouts Follow Theme On Alaska

CANADENSIS—Cub Pack 86 held its monthly pack meeting at the Barrett YMCA. The theme of the month was "Exploring Alaska," with Vic Schankweiler and Ray Wieboldt as the idea committee.

Each den worked on the Alaska theme and displayed handicraft. Den 1 set up an Alaskan trading post. Den 2 made an Alaskan village. Den 3 put on a puppet show. Den 4 displayed an Alaskan scene. Den 5 made trophy skins. Den 6, a new den under the leadership of Mrs. George Koehner with Mrs. Albert Gino assisting, made an Alaskan scene. The attendance pennant was won by Den 6 with almost perfect attendance—all Cub Scouts and all but one parent present. The honor pennant was won by Den 4 with 100 percent attendance and three guests present. These pennants will be presented each month.

Capt. James Holmes, a newcomer to Barrett, who will take over the committee chairmanship, showed a collection of hand-carved whalebone made by the Alaskan Eskimos.

New Cubs, Cubbers
Pack 86 welcomed the following Cub Scouts and Cubbers: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sieg and son Ronnie, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wilson and son Paige, Capt. and Mrs. James Holmes and son John, Mrs. Marie Reisman and son Stephen, Mrs. Albert Gino, assistant den mother, Mr. and Mrs. M. Williams and son John.

Mrs. Helen Taylor, American Red Cross instructor in first aid and first aid merit badge counselor for Boy Scouts of America, Pocono District, spoke to the Cubs on first aid for their age group and will be with them again at the April pack meeting.

Al Locher, Richard Shoemith, Vic Schankweiler and Ray Wieboldt held inspection for the Cub Scouts and graded them on appearance, cleanliness and uniform.

Cubmaster Robert Ziegler presented the following awards: Walter Locher—denner badge, John McCoy—bobcat pin, Michael Ryan—gold arrow, Billy Reese—denner badge, Alan Oppelt—lion badge, denner badge, 1 gold and 3 silver arrows, Ricky Noone—wolf badge, 1 gold and 2 silver arrows and assistant denner badge, John Williams—bobcat pin, Paul David Miller—1 gold and 1 silver arrow, Michael Megargle—lion badge and 1 gold and 1 silver arrow, Larry Fish—wolf badge and assistant denner badge, William Wieboldt—denner badge, Paul Jones—gold arrow, Ray Jones—bobcat pin, Rob Shinnen—1 year service star.

To keep Barrett's conservation program rolling each Cub agreed willingly to place one conservation poster in a store in the community. They received the posters at the pack meeting.

The feature of the meeting was a team of huskies and sled which Leo Smith of Mountainhome had waiting outside, to bring a bit of real Alaska to his Cub Scout friends in Pack 86. With the snow as a background it was a perfect setting for "Exploring Alaska."

In Pierre S.D., is a 300-acre tract where 250 juvenile Indian boys and girls live.

Industrial Management Club Elects

ELECTION of officers of the Industrial Management Club was held Tuesday night during the monthly meeting of the unit at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. The following were elected:

Jack Masters, president; Gus Miller, vice-president; Henry Klerx, secretary; Claude Arnold, treasurer; and Herbert Yutz, board of governors.

Installation ceremonies will be held during the "Ladies Night" meeting May 16 at Pocono Manor.

During the meeting an auction of gifts, donated by members and firms, was held. Acting as auctioneer was Forrest Smith. Approximately $161 was realized for the club's project, the YMCA Boys' Camp Fund.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

I don't suppose the world really holds its breath, but that's the way it feels. You can sense the great sigh, the indrawing of breath at Thursday night's communion service—so simple, so unpretentious, with the worshippers dressed in ordinary clothes.

And you can feel it breathe out with a whoosh on Easter morning, loud with anthems, bright with flowers, rollicking with joy.

Part of the sense of suspended breath comes from the Good Friday interval when nothing seems to move. Part of it is from our own inner feelings of awe, meditation, and anticipation.

And part of it is because of the social news itself. Throughout Lent we've had meetings and birthdays and births, and plenty of news, but it's been under control like a well-regulated river. Now, however, you can feel the pressure beginning to pile up behind the barriers.

Trickling through are the first intimations of annual banquets, close-of-school parties, engagements, early Spring weddings. Like spotting a leak in the dyke, you watch in fascination waiting for the full tide to break through, and sweep over you.

I can think of worse ways to drown than in a sea of news, but just the same, it's wonderful to have this brief interval to take a long breath, look at yourself and what you're really trying to do, and sort of chart a course—or if that seems impossible, at least pick yourself a star to steer by.

Easter, it always seems to me, is a much better time of year for resolutions than New Year's Day. It's not a new date, but it's a new world waking, a new season beginning, and you could be a new person living it.

Amateur Nite Date Changed To April 25

Readers—The date of the Amateur Night, sponsored by the Jackson Township School, has been changed to April 25 at 7:30 p.m.

Anyone wishing to enter may call Mrs. William Woodling, 3919-J-3 or Mrs. Paul Mager, 1452-R-3 or write to Amateur Nite, Readers, Pa.

Contestants are urged to enter as soon as possible.

Full-Time Martyr? Try Part-Time Work

By Anne Heywood

The time to get rid of a bad habit, as we all know, is when it is spanking new. If we wait until it has taken possession of us, it is almost impossible to break it.

This is perhaps more true of the habit of self-pity than of any other.

After all, self-pity is very reasonable. There isn't one of us who cannot, at any hour of the day or night, make a perfectly beautiful, logical, factual case for justifiable self-pity.

Have Dual Role

I encounter this a good deal with many women readers who are, as the sociologists put it, performing a dual role as homemaker and earners. It is a very difficult business, as I know at first hand, but there is very little to be gained by making it the basis for a lifetime of self-pity.

Here is a letter from a reader in Ohio which will give you an idea of what I mean:

"I'm sick of hearing of women who want creative outlets," she writes.

"I keep house for my husband and two grade school children and I also work from 9 to 5 as a secretary. I don't do this because of any creative yearning, but because we really need the money."

No Time For Herself

"At night I cook dinner, do the dishes and fall into bed exhausted. On weekends, with the cleaning, ironing and marketing to be done, I haven't time to call my soul my own."

There are several suggestions I would make in a case like this. First, she ought to have a quiet talk with her husband and children and, without hysterics, discuss sharing the household chores.

Husbands and children are usually more than willing to do their share for a full-time working mother, but, all too often, she simply doesn't ask them.

She either takes it for granted they would say no or she subconsciously likes being a martyr. Most men and children are reasonable people—or can be made to be.

Miss Doris Honecker

B. D. Transue Engaged To N. Y. Girl

PORTLAND — Mr. and Mrs. John J. Honecker of 7844 86th St., Glendale, Long Island, N.Y., announced the engagement of their daughter Doris, to Barrett D. Transue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert N. Transue of Portland, Pa.

Miss Honecker attended Concordia Collegiate Institute, a Junior College in Bronxville, N.Y. and will be graduated from Adelphi College in Garden City, Long Island in June.

Mr. Transue was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and is now doing graduate work at Lehigh University while teaching elementary school in Allentown. He served with the U.S. Army for three years including 23 months in Japan.

The wedding is scheduled for July.

Red Cross Tuesday

The April meeting of the Monroe County Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held on Tuesday, April 8, at 7:30 p.m.

D of A Friday

Daughters of America will meet Friday night at 8 at the Odd Fellows Hall.

If you work a full day, and fix the dinner, you ought at least to expect that your husband and family will handle all dishes, that the children will take care of their own rooms and that the budget will be squeezed to permit having a professional cleaning woman for at least a couple of hours. That would give you some time over the weekend for yourself.

Also, some, if not most, of the laundry can be sent out. After all, you are bringing in money. If you try to burn the candle at both ends, doctors and hospitals will get far more money than a housewife.

Send Your Self-Pity Sternly On Its Way

part-time cleaning woman and laundry would get now.

Temporary Job

Second, see if you can't manage to do just temporary secretarial work. In this way, you can work, say, three or four weeks from 9 to 5 and then take one week off for organizing the house, collecting your wits and getting your life organized again.

This new kind of part-time work is more feasible than you may think.

For further pointers, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, one of this newspaper, and I will send you "Pointers To a Part-Time Job."

Egg Hunt At Swiftwater Sat. Morning

Mount Pocono—The Sunday School of St. Paul's United Church of Christ of East Swiftwater have planned an Easter egg hunt for Saturday morning at 10 a.m. at the church grounds. After the hunt, lunch will be served at the church basement for all the children.

Donations of eggs, sandwiches, milk and cookies will be appreciated. Prizes will be awarded.

Class Makes Awards For Foreign Students

Blakeslee—Mrs. Emory Getz entertained her Sunday School class from the Pilgrim Holiness church on Friday night. The group meets several times a year to make awards for missionaries to give to the members of their Sunday School classes.

The awards are fashioned from discarded Christmas cards, pasted on construction paper with small calendars stapled to them. The missionaries report that often these are the only gifts the children receive.

Mrs. Getz served refreshments to John Argot, Thomas Argot, Rose Meckes, Doris Meckes, Harry Meckes, Richard Meckes, Donna Argot, Ellen Keiper, Larry Berger, Larry Court, Vincent Megarier and Ricky Keenapple of White Haven.

Guests included Mrs. Audrey Serfoss, Mrs. Elsie Eckley, Mrs. Phyllis Blakeslee of Brodheadville, Mrs. Thomas Manley and daughters, Mary Ann and Virginia of East Stroudsburg, Mrs. Daniel Starner, Mrs. Grace Wildrick, Mrs. L. Thomas Walters, Mrs. Fay Sincavage, Mrs. Emily Carter, Mrs. Grace Bush, Mrs. Henrietta Blakeslee, Mrs. Elvora Kerker, Mrs. Edward Lewis and the hostess and her daughters Susan and Katie.

Miss Kay Shook

Kay Shook Middlebury WRA Pres.

Middlebury, Vt.—Kay A. Shook, a Stroudsburg, Pa., junior at Middlebury College, has been elected president of the Women's Recreation Association. She will serve in her new post from now until March, 1959.

The WRA is an organization of all women in the College for participation in both the all-inclusive intramural sports program and in the Play Days which involve competition with other colleges and junior colleges in various sports events.

The officers have the responsibility for planning the schedule of intramural sports, making arrangements for the special events such as Play Days, and they appoint managers for all women's sports.

Miss Shook has served as vice president during the past year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin S. Baldwin of Glen Brook Rd., Stroudsburg.

Scouts Visit Scout Show At Middletown

Dingman's Ferry—About thirty Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts of Dingman's Ferry had an outing Saturday night when they went to New York State to spend two hours visiting the big "Scouting in Action" show at the Middletown Armory.

They were accompanied by Irving Smith; Lucien Locke, president of the Delaware Township Fire Company which sponsors Scout Troop No. 75; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wentworth, Scoutmaster and Den Mother; Mr. and Mrs. James Albright, representative and president of the Delaware Township P.T.A., which sponsors the Cub Scout Pack #75; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bensley, Assistant Cubmaster and former Den Mother; and Mrs. Virginia Hodges, Den Mother.

The caravan of five cars left Dingman's Ferry Post Office corner about 5 p.m. and stopped at the Dixie Diner outside Middletown where the boys enjoyed ordering their own suppers.

Spring Luncheon Of St. Mary's Guild April 22

The meeting of St. Mary's Guild of Christ Episcopal Church was held on Tuesday in the Parish Hall. Mrs. Florence Calkins led the devotions and the president, Mrs. W. E. Andrew, presided at the business session.

Mrs. Charles A. Park and Mrs. A. S. Phelps were elected as delegates to attend the 74th Annual Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of Bethlehem which will be held in The Church of the Good Shepherd, Scranton, on May 13 and 14.

Mrs. Andrew thanked the members of the Sewing Group for making the new altar hangings for the Lenten Season. Anna M. Loder, Ann P. Kleinie and Henrietta Enders are members of the Auxiliary who have passed away during the year and their names will be entered in The Book of Remembrance and read at the Evening Service of the Meeting to be held in Scranton.

The Guild will hold the annual Spring luncheon in the parish hall on April 22 at 1:30. Anyone wishing reservations may call 1792.

The Spring rummage sale will be held at 314 Main Street on May 15, 16 and 17. The room will be open for donations on the afternoon of the 14th. Mrs. Roy M. Houser and Mrs. Edwin F. Oetzel are co-chairmen of the sale.

Mrs. James R. Gavin announced that the Bridge Club would make a gift of $50 to the Jontown Home for Children.

Rev. Charles A. Park spoke to the members and explained various rituals of the Communion and Easter Services.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. James R. Gavin, Mrs. A. Roe Bush and Mrs. Rogers Smith.

Jolly Jane Party Held At Coss Home

Bartonsville—A social evening was enjoyed when the Jolly Jane Club of Bartonsville met at the home of Mrs. Richard Coss, on April 1. Mrs. Russell Bond was awarded the hostess gift.

Delicious refreshments were served. Decorations were in the Easter mood. Favors were chocolate Easter eggs with the names of club members on them.

Those attending were Mrs. Emma Metzgar, Mrs. Vernon Wallace, Mrs. Russell Bond, Mrs. James N. Canfield Jr., Mrs. Donald Hartman, Mrs. Roy Schreck, Mrs. Joseph Dunbar, Mrs. Fred Walters, Miss Mary Alieger, Miss Emma Dunbar and the hostess Mrs. Richard Coss.

Next meeting of the Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Donald Hartman, on Tuesday night, April 15.

Fire Co. To Benefit From Party Series

Dingman's Ferry—Mrs. Bertie Seymour, wife of the late Roy Seymour, former postmaster and treasurer of the Delaware Township Volunteer Fire Co., has announced that she will hold a series of parties at her home this Spring and Summer with the entire proceeds of these affairs will be turned over to the Ladies' Auxiliary of the fire company.

Because of limited space, Mrs. Seymour will entertain the women of the community in groups, and invitations for the first party, to be held on Tuesday evening, April 8th, at 8 p.m. have been mailed to all the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fire Company.

A second party will be held in the near future for another group, and Mrs. Seymour hopes to hold one or more parties during the summer for seasonal residents and friends.

County Eyes Pension Plan For Officials

MONROE COUNTY is moving toward placement of elected officials on Social Security rolls for the first time.

Until a recent revision of rulings, elected officials were not considered by State and Government experts to be "county employees." Now they may be termed under this category.

Yesterday, commissioners set Thursday, April 10, as the date for a meeting with N. Henry Fenner, prothonotary and clerk of courts; Floyd Butz, register and recorder; and J. Nelson Westbrook, treasurer.

Eligible for Plan
At that meeting, commissioners will attempt to explain new light which has been shed on the Social Security law. It will mean, among other things, that Fenner, Butz and Westbrook will be placed on Social Security payment plan by the county. Half of the S. S. payments are made by the employer and half by the employee.

Egg Hunt At Hamilton

HAMILTON — The Hamilton Union Sunday School will hold its annual Easter egg hunt Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Hamilton Square Church grounds. All children of the Sunday School are invited to participate.

The Sunday School will hold its Easter program Sunday at 9:30 a. m. according to Asa Hoffner, superintendent.

Note Active Sunspot

BOULDER, Colo. — One of the greatest periods of sunspot activity since Galileo made his observations in 1612 is in progress, Dr. Walter Orr Roberts, director of the High Altitude Observatory at the University of Colorado, reports.

OFF THE RECORD

By Bob Clark
Sports Editor

ANNUALLY SPORTS WRITERS get a chance to make fools of themselves. Usually we don't make this jump until a few days before the major league campaigns get under way. But being a dull day on the athletic front we see no reason why we shouldn't select our "winners" and "also-rans" at the present time.

Anyway it doesn't cost a penny for being wrong and with that thought in mind we'll go out on the limb and pick the St. Louis Cardinals to dethrone the Milwaukee Braves as National League champions, and the Boston Red Sox to lift the crown from the New York Yankees, perennial American League kings.

Following the Cards in order will be Milwaukee, Cincinnati, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Chicago Cubs.

Trailing the Red Sox in the junior circuit will be Chicago, New York, Cleveland, Detroit, Baltimore, Kansas City and Washington.

Why the Sox? Boston has improved more than any other club. They finished third a year ago with the best homer-hitting and second best batting mark in the American League.

Their problem in '57 was in the infield where second and shortstop were porous from start to finish. Now, Don Buddin, a good fielder, has returned from the service and Billy Consolo, the bonus baby, has shaken off his pink cheeks and become a polished keystone guardian.

If Consolo falters, the Pacific Coast League's leading batter last year—Ken Aspromonte can fill the bill more than adequately.

The Boston mound staff is as good or better than the rest of the teams. In Frank Sullivan, Tom Brewer (when he returns from an injury) Ike Delock, Dave Sisler and Willard (I like the Yankees) Nixon, a solid front-line hill brigade exists. Backing them are Frank Bauman, who apparently has found himself, and Leo Kiely, a reliever who won 21 at 'Frisco in '57. The last two are lefties and are expected to give balance to the corps.

Freddie Hutchinson darn near made it last year. And now that Al Dark has conceded to move to third and give smooth-fielding Eddie Kasko the shortstop job the Cardinals are fixed on the left side of the infield.

Powerhitters like Del Ennis, Wally Moon pleased-to-be-in-centerfield Ken Boyer, and Joe Cunningham, are strictly assets. Of course there's a man by the name of Stan Musial around, and a guy with his bat half of any team's attack.

Pitching is young but good. Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell a disappointment last year, is real strong in spring training. Then there are Larry Jackson, Lindy McDaniel and fireballing Sam (Toothpick) Jones.

St. Louis' big forte is "Hutch" who can manipulate hurlers as good as any pilot in the majors.

Reasons for naming the Chicago White Sox second: No other reason than because Al Lopez has guided teams to more second place finishes than any present big league manager.

Yanks in third: A mound staff that has only the praise of the one-sided New York writers.

Indians in fourth: On paper the Tribe is not a first division club but Brash Bobby Bragan and "David Harum" Frank Lane will make sure Cleveland gets among the first four.

Detroit in fifth: Not even holler guy Billy Martin can instill enough drive in the Tigers to make them a pennant threat.

Baltimore, Kansas City and Washington will have their own race with the Senators a sure bet to finish last even among this trio.

The Braves will give St. Louis a real run for the money, but that, in our opinion, will be the Milwaukee downfall as too much "cabbage" was poured out to players who "rose" much higher than their potential in 1957.

Redlegs in third: Despite what Birdie Tebbets says, there is power in the Rhineland. But the pitching and speed is still low enough to keep Cincy away from one-run wins.

Giants in fourth: This is strictly a case of the Wilkes. If Maize and Kirkland combine they'll overshadow the poor 'Frisco mound staff.

Los Angeles in fifth: Just a case of a team getting too old. Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Chicago like their American League cellar-dwelling counterparts have too little of everything.

See us around September 28. That's when the crow season begins. We've always liked the bird and have gulped it on many occasions.

Emergency Meet Of IL Sunday

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla.—An emergency meeting of all International League teams will be held in Miami, Sunday, with the Cuban crisis threatening to cancel the league's April 16 opener between the Buffalo Bisons and the Havana Sugar Kings in Havana.

Rebel leader Fidel Castro's latest surge on the island republic admittedly has baseball men worried as the league's 75th season approaches.

League President Frank J. Shaughnessy, expressed concern of the IL teams, and called the meeting for Sunday "to straighten things out."

Pros Must Wait Year For Baylor

WASHINGTON—Professional basketball will have to wait another year for Elgin Baylor's services—or so says the changeable All-America for Seattle University.

Reached at his home here Monday, Baylor said he intends to play another year of college basketball at Seattle although he is eligible to be drafted by a National Basketball Assn. club. He had said as much Sunday night on a national television (Steve Allen, NBC) show.

Russell May Play Tomorrow

ST. LOUIS—Injured Bill Russell, the record-setting rebounder of the Boston Celtics, was given a 50-50 chance Thursday of playing Saturday in the fourth game of the National Basketball Assn. championship playoffs.

The 6-10 Russell severely sprained his right ankle Wednesday night as Boston succumbed to St. Louis 111-108 and fell behind 2-1 in the best-of-seven series.

Gavilan To Face Jones In TVer

PHILADELPHIA—A couple of fighters almost as familiar on television as Wyatt Earp meet here for the weekly Friday night (NBC) fight spectacular—Kid Gavilan vs. Ralph (Tiger) Jones.

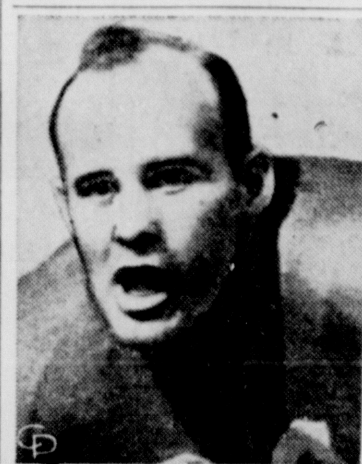

The Cuban Kead, former welterweight champion, and Jones, a rough, tough club fighter, met before, with Gavilan winning in 1953, and the Jones boy evening the score last February.

The 10 p.m. ten round main event will be scored on a 5 point basis to the winner of each round. Two judges and a referee score the bout.

Red Wings Ink Abel For 1959

DETROIT—Sid Abel signed Wednesday to coach the Detroit Red Wings for the 1958-59 National Hockey League season.

Abel took over in early January when coach Jimmy Skinner was ordered by his doctors to quit.

END RESULT GOOD—An outstanding end at Oklahoma in his college days and for seven years an end with the Chicago Cardinals, Frank Ivy, 41, is the new head coach of the Chicago pro club. Ivy has been coaching the Edmonton Eskimos in the Canadian Western Interprovincial league. (International)

Pitching 'Ace' In Eastburg Hole

EAST STROUDSBURG HIGH'S 1958 baseball fortunes can be summed up by saying "good pitching, capable infield, fair hitting and lack of depth in the outfield."

39 'Old Pros' On American League Nines

By JERRY LISKA
CHICAGO—The term "old pro" is a patented sports cliché, but in the American League it fits no fewer than 39 players who are official veterans.

Veteran status—requiring either 10 years of combined major league service and time in military service, or 8 years of actual baseball service—means a player cannot be sent down to the minors without his consent.

A check Thursday with Earl J. Hilligan, league Service Bureau director, disclosed the American loop has 24 players with 10 or more years service and 15 holding 8-year service cards.

The junior circuit's ranking greybeard and lone 20-year man is Enos Slaughter of the New York Yankees, whose salad years of course were spent with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League.

20-Year Man
Marvelous Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox will become a 20-year man on the 50th day of the 1959 season, while Mickey Vernon of the Cleveland Indians is working on his 18th season.

According to Hilligan's figures, other American Leaguers with 15 or more years in the majors include Jim Hegan of Detroit, Early Wynn of Chicago, and Virgil Trucks and Murry Dickson of Kansas City, all 16-year men, and Bob Lemon of Cleveland, holding a 15-year rating.

Cleveland's Vic Wertz, is credited with 14½ major years and Washington's Eddie Yost with 13½.

Berra Second
Excepting Slaughter, the Yankees oldest performer from the point of playing service is catcher Yogi Berra with 11.

Other 10-year men include Larry Doby of Cleveland and Gene Woodling, Art Houtteman and Eddie Miksis of Baltimore; Ned Garver of Kansas City; and Chuck Stobbs of Washington.

Bison Outfielder Quits Retirement

POMPANO BEACH, Fla.—Russ Sullivan, who hit .314 for the Buffalo Bisons last season, changed his mind Thursday about retiring. But he won't be able to report until after the International League baseball season starts.

The 32-year-old outfielder sent word from his home in Fredericksburg, Va., that he'd report within 30 days. Business commitments prevent him from joining the club here for training.

Bruins Stun Rangers, 6-1

BOSTON—Defenseman Fernie Flaman, scoreless in 85 consecutive games, collected two Boston goals Thursday night as the Bruins stunned New York, 6-1, in an awesome demonstration of Stanley Cup playoff hockey. The triumph nudged Boston ahead 3-2 in the best of seven semifinal series.

Whispell Named Mules' Director

ALLENTOWN, Pa.—Muhlenberg College announced Thursday the appointment of Ray Whispell, head football coach since 1956, as director of athletics.

Muhlenberg President J. Conrad Seegers said Whispell will continue to coach the football team at least for a year. Whispell succeeds the late George Lawson. (International)

The Cavaliers of Jack Kist opened up their "outside" training Wednesday on the new but incomplete Stroudsburg playground home field.

Headed by three veterans of last year's mound corps, lefty Charley Lupin and righties Evan Reese and Foster Ladlee, the Cavaliers pitching problems appear stronger than a year ago.

Catching are two lettermen who are expected to provide the big batting punch. They are Bob Herman, a left-handed swinger, and Bob Stine, a long-ball clouting batter from the right side. Stine, when not behind the plate, will be at first base.

Newcomer at 2nd
At second base a newcomer will replace the graduated Bob Kassner. Battling for the key position are John Viechnicki and Frank Gimble.

Johnny Hindman, a sophomore who saw a lot of duty last year, is expected to start the season at shortstop, while Denny Patti and Carl (Corky) Smith battle it out for third.

Kist's main problem is the outfield where Roger Ray is the only player with any amount of experience. However, Kist hopes to come up with two others from Art and Paul Plattenburg, Joe Steele and Tom Long.

43 Reported
All told 43 candidates reported for drills when the Cavaliers opened up "inside" 10 days ago. Kist will carry 25 throughout the season.

"We're not going with any one player at one position," the Cavalier mentor said. "We plan to move the boys around in order to get more punch in the lineup."

East Stroudsburg inaugurates its season April 11 at home with Easton High. However, it was announced that if the playground site is not completed by that time the game will be played in Easton.

L. N. Opens April 22
The Cavaliers open their Lehigh-Northampton Scholastic League chase April 22 by hosting Parkland.

The playground field went under a new "clay" look at the end of last season and workmen are waiting for the ground to dry to smooth out the rough spots.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—The Philadelphia Phillies sent 18-year-old Eddie Keegan, a pitcher, to Williamsport of the Class A Eastern League Wednesday.

SILKY SNICKERS—And with good reason. Silky Sullivan, the greatest stunner in modern turf history, strikes a confident pose as he transfers his activities from Santa Anita to Golden Gate Park. Later he'll strut his stuff in the Kentucky Derby in which he is already a favorite. (International)

Ken Venturi Takes Lead In Masters

By HUGH FULLETON JR.
AUGUSTA, Ga.—Ken Venturi, who has made a Masters golf championship his greatest goal, carved a 68 over "easy" Augusta National Thursday and snatched the first round lead from two of the most improbable leaders in the tournament.

Until Venturi holed out late on a warm, humid afternoon, the lead had been shared by Bo Winginger of Odessa, Tex., one of the last two players invited to the Masters this year, and Norman Von Nida, a skinny 44-year-old Australian who takes more pride in his teaching than in his playing.

Tie For 2nd
Later debutant Jimmy Demaret, a three-time winner of the Masters, and greying Chick Harbert, former PGA titleholder, came along to tie for second. Three players, including 1955 winner Cary Middlecoff, posted 70s to bounce the race for the title wide open.

The 6,980-yard, par 36-36-72 Augusta National course was a bit soft from the wet, cold spring weather. The fairways had little bounce and the greens, although slower than they usually are for the Masters, were exceptionally true.

At the end of the day's play 17 players were under par and 14 more had even par 72s.

The par shooter included three-time winner Sam Snead, who said afterward that he had re-injured his left hand; Ben Hogan, always one of the most feared players in this tournament and Australia's Peter Thomson, three-time winner of the British Open. Any one of the 31 players at par or better Thursday must be considered as possible tournament winners. The playing conditions may decide.

Basilio To Leave Hospital Today

CHICAGO—Carmen Basilio, dethroned middleweight champion, will leave the hospital Friday after nine days treatment of an eye injury suffered in his title bout with Sugar Ray Robinson.

Dr. Richard Perritt, eye specialist, said Basilio's banged left eye had made an excellent recovery and the former 160-pound king could fight again when he chooses.

Don Suman, in his eight full seasons as Rice basketball coach, shows a record of 108 victories and 82 defeats.

EX-CATCHER SUCCUMBS—Funeral services were held in Chicago for Jimmy Archer, former major league catcher, who succumbed in a Milwaukee hospital, following surgery. He was 74. Archer caught for the Pirates, Cubs, Redlegs and Dodgers in a career which began in 1904 and ended in 1918. He was born in Ireland.

Bucs Defeat A's

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—Jim Pendleton's three-run circuit smash off relief pitcher Arnold Portocarrero in the seventh inning assured the Pittsburgh Pirates a 9-4 victory over the Kansas City Athletics Thursday.

The Athletics had come from behind and were leading 7-5 when Pendleton hit his home run. After Wally Burnette relieved Portocarrero, Gene Baker hit a double to score John Powers with the final run.

Pittsburgh scored three times in the first inning off Ned Garver and would have had more except for a sensational throw by Woody Held that doubled Frank Thomas who was trying to go to third after a long fly to center by Baker.

The A's batted around in the fourth inning off starter Ben Daniels and went ahead 7-5 with a single counter in the sixth.

Pittsburgh — 320 000 400—9 13 1
Kansas City — 290 081 000—7 10 1
Daniels, Williams (6), Raydon (7), Arroyo (9) and Krawitz; Garver, Portocarrero (6), Dwyer (9) and H. Smith HRs—Cleveland, Colavito; Baltimore, Robinson.

Redlegs, Nats Tie

FORT GORDON, Ga.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs and Washington Senators battled to a 3-3 tie with rain halting hostilities at the end of 12 innings Thursday.

Thirty-two players saw action in the three hour battle. The Redlegs out-hit the Senators, 15-10. One of Washington's hits was Jim Lemon's second exhibition homer.

(12 innings)
Washington — 020 100 000 000—3 10 0
Cincinnati — 010 101 000 000—3 10 0
Stobbs, Hyde (9) and Pitarerald; Berberet (9); Haddix, Wieland (7), Freeman (9) and Haller
HR—Washington, Lemon.

Niagara Star Miffed At 'Stars' Bid

HAMILTON, Ohio—(AP)—Alex (Boo) Ellis of Niagara said Thursday he had been denied a spot on the College All-Star basketball team for its tour with the Harlem Globetrotters because he wouldn't sign a contract to join the Trotters after the tour.

Ellis, the nation's leading rebounder and an all-star selection at both the All-College and National Invitation tournaments, said he preferred to see if he would have a chance to play in the National Basketball Assn.

Saperstein Says
In Chicago, with his Globetrotters, owner Abe Saperstein said that Ellis last month had been sent a Globetrotter contract which he never returned.

"Our All-Star squad was made up and there was no spot for Ellis. But getting back to playing with the Globetrotters, this never stopped a lot of our boys from moving to the NBA."

Even Scheffing Doesn't Believe Cubs Will Leave 2nd Division This Year

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

MESA, Ariz. — For a dozen years the Chicago Cubs have been a second division ball club and the 1958 edition, while "a little better than last year," as Manager Bob Scheffing puts it, appears destined to retain the same standing in the league.

Scheffing, who now is a resident of this area, having moved to nearby Scottsdale a year ago, is first division all the way in vision with the press, but unfortunately he doesn't have the tools to work with to do much about putting his team in the same category.

Says Bob:

"I think we're a little better than last year (The Cubs finished in a tie for seventh) because our infield is better. We have more depth and I think we have helped at second and third where we were very weak last season.

"We're still looking for help in the outfield. I would say our catching is improved. Yes, and I think we can win more games this year."

The Cubs had 20 boys in a preliminary camp at Mesa and Scheffing is happy about the results.

"One of the most important things we accomplished there," he said, "is that these boys will be able to play in a better classification this year than they would if we didn't have the camp."

Year Away

Three young pitchers, Dave Gerard and Joe Schaffernoth, both from Des Moines, and Dolan Nichols, San Diego, were the most impressive along with a young outfielder, Lou Jackson, who had one year at Twin Falls.

But none of these is ready, yet. Manager Bob believes that his big star, Ernie Banks, who hit 43 home runs and drove in 102 counters last year, still hasn't reached his potential.

"Banks will have a better year than he has had," offered Bob. "He's a slow starter and we got him out here early this spring. Last spring he hurt his arm and he was handicapped to some extent."

Banks is the shortstop, with Dale Long, the long-ball hitting ex-Pirate at first and Bob Speake understudy him there. Second and third could be toss-ups with Tony Taylor, from Dallas, Bobby Adams and John Goryl, from Memphis, competing. Goryl, who batted .301 last season for Memphis, also has been playing second base, where Gerald Kindall, former Minnesota U. star, played some last year but failed to hit his weight. Infield help includes Bobby Morgan.

Cal Neeman, playing his first year with the Cubs last season, is the No. 1 catcher. He came along real well at the end of the season. Sam Taylor, from Atlanta, Elvin Tappe from Los Angeles and Gordon Messa, who was with Des Moines, are other catchers.

Moe To Return

The Cubs' pitching could be good. Moe Drabowsky, 13-15 last year, was the Cubs' top finger and he is due out of the service April 12. Dick Drott, big righthander ranks with Drabowsky. He won 15 last season. Other two starters probably will be Jim Brosnan, who was 5-5, and Taylor Phillips, who came to the Cubs in the winter deal that sent Bob Rush to the Braves. Phillips had a 3-2 mark last year.

Among the newcomers is Glen Hobbie, a big righthander who had a fine year at Memphis. Says Scheffing about this one: "He looks very good. He pitched against the Giants the other day and shut them out for four innings. He's got good stuff and the question seems to be whether he can throw enough strikes."

The outfield could use some power. Chuck Tanner, Lee Walls and Walt Moryn, along with Bob Will, Jim Bolger and Bob Speake are the contenders. A rookie is Frank Ernaga, former U.C.L.A. star who came to the Cubs from Portland last year but played little although hitting .314.

Infielder Taylor and Will played in the Cuban winter loop with Taylor, a speedster, turning in a fine effort, finishing second in hitting in the league.

OPENING NIGHT FEATURE—Frankie Clause, a teacher by vocation, and one of the East's outstanding bowlers, will be one of the feature attractions at the opening of the Pocono Mountain Bowling Tournament at Barrett Bowling Center April 15. Clause owns a 207 lifetime average and was the 1954 winner of the Pennsylvania All-Events title. He led all bowlers in the city of Detroit in 1946-47 with a 208 norm. Except for his Detroit sojourn, Frank has resided and taught in Old Forge all his life.

Giants Trade Bob Thomson

MESA, Ariz. — Outfielder Bobby Thomson, who hit the most famous home run in the history of the Giants, said today he was disappointed to be traded away from the San Francisco club.

But the 34-year-old veteran added, "The Chicago Cubs are a good outfit to be with."

Thomson was sent to the Cubs Thursday in exchange for outfielder Bob Speake and an undisclosed amount of cash. Keys to the move were the need of the Cubs for a centerfielder and the desire of the Giants to have more left-handed hitting. Thomson is righthanded.

It was in the National League championship playoffs of 1951 that Bobby gained his greatest fame. His homer in the ninth inning with two men on base beat the Brooklyn Dodgers 5-4 in the third and last game.

Here To A Flexing Finish

FOR TWO reasons it takes women a bit longer to develop a consistent and comfortable stride: (1) They don't get the ball into swing by pushing it away (outward from the body) sufficiently, and (2) they finish too erect at the foul line.

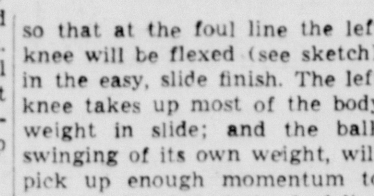

One fault actually is a sequence to the other.

Most important with women beginners is an upright starting position. The ball is held a bit above waist level—in the palm of the left hand, always. In that way the left arm does its part in pushing the ball outward.

And the outward push, ladies, is the key movement. It may feel awkward at first, but good form is impossible without it. Concentrate on pushing the ball away in timing with the first step with the right foot in four-step footwork, and then keep right on going to the foul line.

Perfect Arc

You'll find that the arm swings close to the side, in a perfect arc, and that the weight of the swinging ball will take your body downward sufficiently so that at the foul line the left knee will be flexed (see sketch) in the easy, slide finish. The left knee takes up most of the body weight in slide; and the ball, swinging of its own weight, will pick up enough momentum to pass the left leg at the foul line and swing through with constant direction.

If you're not flexing the knee at the line, increase the length of the push-away.

Lavagetto Looks Like Man With Problems--He Has

ORLANDO, Fla. — Cookie Lavagetto, manager of the Washington Senators, looks like a man beset by problems. Looks, in this case, are not deceiving. The Senators have so many problems, it is difficult to find a starting point.

Washington pitching was the poorest in the league last year. The team was seventh in batting, sixth in fielding and last in the standings, 43 games out of first place. The team stole 13 bases, the lowest total in major league history.

Lavagetto thinks this year's vulcanized crew is 70 per cent improved defensively with the acquisition of little Albie Pearson in center field, Bob Malkmus at second base, Neil Chrissy in right field and Norm Zauchin at first base.

Not Predicting

"I'm not predicting where we'll finish," Lavagetto said, "although I hope we can get up as high as sixth. But we do have a goal and that is to win half our games. Our aim is play .500 baseball."

Washington is a have-not club in every department except catching and in the outfield where Roy Sievers reigns. Clint Courtney, Lew Berberet and a rookie who may beat out both of them for the No. 1 spot, Steve Korchek, give the Nats the deepest catching staff in the league.

Chemical Engineers Award Coveted Prize To Garaventi

DONALD C. GARAVENTI has been named one of three top winners in an American Institute of Chemical Engineers competition for expert report writing.

Garaventi is a 1954 graduate of Stroudsburg High School. He is now a senior in chemical engineering at Lehigh University.

Donald C. Garaventi

Pastor, Wife Are Honored At Farewell

BANGOR—Rev. and Mrs. Henry Wray were honored at a farewell dinner in the Mackey Memorial Baptist Church Wednesday night.

Following the dinner a quarterly meeting was held in charge of Rev. Wray. Reports were received from Donald Mack, church clerk; Mrs. Melbourne Miller, financial secretary; Ralph Cruver, treasurer; Warren Bonney, Sunday School superintendent; Raymond Grigg Sr., deacons; Lester Williams, trustees; Mrs. Florence Cann, WWW class; Mrs. Arthur Brown Sr., pasty bakers; Mrs. Laura Williams, Women's Missionary Society; Mrs. Ralph Cruver and Mrs. Wray, renovating committee; Mrs. Dorothy Halliday, Helping Hand class, and Rev. Wray, auditor's report.

Warren Bonney was named as the publicity secretary and Vernon Phillips and Mrs. Warren Bonney were appointed to the auditing committee. A number of candidates were accepted for baptism on Sunday.

Rev. Wray, who has resigned as pastor after serving the local church six years, and Mrs. Wray are leaving this week for Williamsport where they will make their home.

Wedding anniversaries: Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bush will celebrate their 13th anniversary on April 7 and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Shoemaker their 19th on April 8.

The Navajo, Mesquero and Jicarilla Apache Indians are related tribes. They migrated from Canada to the Southwest United States over the past thousand years.

He has been chosen to receive second prize in the contest. It is sponsored by the Philadelphia-Wilmington Section of the AICE.

Awards in the contest will be presented at a luncheon meeting Tuesday, April 8 at Houston Hall, University of Pennsylvania.

Colleges Entered

Competition for the awards was limited to chemical engineering students of Bucknell University, Drexel Institute of Technology, Lehigh, Lafayette College, Princeton University, University of Delaware, University of Pennsylvania and Villanova University.

Each of the winners receives a supply of technical books. The selection of these volumes is left to them.

The award which Garaventi has won is called the F. C. Zeisberg Memorial Award. His prizewinning entry was based on report writing from technical observations made during testing of chemical processes in a laboratory course at Lehigh.

Garaventi was a top honor student at Stroudsburg High School. He and his parents now live at 1011 Lilac St., Pittsburgh.

He holds a Modern Transfer full tuition scholarship to Lehigh. He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity, is president of the Lehigh Inter-Fraternity Council and is a member of Tau Beta Pi.

After graduation from Lehigh, Garaventi will be employed as a technical sales trainee by Rohm and Haas Co., manufacturers of Plexiglass and other chemical products, in Philadelphia.
